BIG FOOT BALL GAMES START IN STATE TODAY

Clemson Plays At Centre and Ky. Wesleyan Meets U. of K. At Lexington

(By Associated Press)
Today's Football Games
Football games scheduled by Kentucky Colleges for today:
At Lexington—University of Kentucky vs. Kentucky Wesleyan.
At Danville—Centre College vs. Clemson College.
At Lexington—Transylvania College vs. Camp Knox.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 1.—"King football" this week-end takes complete charge of college activity in Kentucky. Beginning with the contest between Georgetown and Cumberland College on the Georgetown field today, the 1921 season will be formally and completely launched on three other college gridirons tomorrow.

The University of Kentucky will match its efforts against Kentucky Wesleyan College of Winchester on Stoll field in Lexington. Neither team has been in action. Wesleyan cancelling its contest with Centre last week, because the Winchester squad was not in condition to meet the heavy Danville team. In contest, however, is expected to give followers of the local team a line on what may be expected later in the season when the Wildcats meet Vanderbilt, Sewanee, Centre, Tennessee and Virginia Military Institute. Advance reports from the Kentucky campus have been to the effect that the Wildcats prospects this year are the best in several seasons. The Winchester squad is reported to be light but not with the additional week of training should be in good shape to test the football ability of the Lexington team.

The heavy Centre team also will get into action for the first time, clashing at Danville with Clemson (S. C.) College. The Colonels are reported to have a line of prospects for a team that will repeat the feats of the famous eleven of the last four years and will be watched closely by gridiron followers of the state to get a line on what may be expected when the team travels to Cambridge on October 29 to meet Harvard. Little is known here of the strength of the "Team" from this year.

The South Carolina agricultural school usually turns out a fairly good team and is expected to give the Colonels a thorough workout to say the least. Transylvania College is reported to have a better squad than last year, but officials of the school are reticent regarding the real strength of the prospective 1921 team. Followers of the famous old school, however, will be given a chance to get a line on what may be expected in later games in the contest with the soldier team from Camp Knox here tomorrow afternoon.

Washington, Oct. 1.—Methods for initiating the emergency measures for the relief of the nation's involuntary idle, adopted by the National Conference on Unemployment are being considered today by Secretary Hoover and the executive officers of the Conference. One plan under consideration is said to contemplate a message to governors of states and mayors of all towns of 25,000 and over, asking immediate cooperation in putting the recommendations into effect. In addition, it is suggested President might by some official word call upon various federal, state and municipal authorities to combine in an offer to relieve the situation under the conference program.

CLOSE RACE FOR BATTING HONORS TWO BIG MEN COMING TO RICHMOND

(By Associated Press)
Chicago, Oct. 1.—The champion batter of the American League may not be known, until the last game of the season has been played. The race has settled down to a nip and tuck battle between Ty Cobb, pilot of the Detroit Tigers, and his hard hitting outfielder, Harry Heilmann. Babe Ruth is the dark horse for premier honors. The Detroit slingers, tied a week ago, are separated by one point, according to the averages released today and which include games of Wednesday. Heilmann is hitting .391, while his boss has a mark of .390, the former having participated in more games than the Georgia peach. Ruth is trailing the pair with an average of .280, a gain over his mark of a week ago of two points. Heilmann dropped three points while Cobb lost four. George Sisler, the St. Louis star, suffered a slight falling off in his stick work, but retains fourth place with .373, while Tris Speaker, manager of the world's champions, is holding fifth place with .358, a loss of .8 points.

Other leading batters for 1921 or more games: Tobin St. Louis, .345; E. Collins, Chicago, .339; Vezeh, Detroit, .336; Stanek, St. Louis, .336. Rogers Hornsby, of St. Louis is making a strong bid to be the first hitter to finish in the National League this season, with an average above the .400 mark since the days of Delehanty, who held the leadership in 1895 and 1896, with averages of .438 and .419, respectively, and Willie Keller, who a member of the Baltimore club in 1897, had a mark of .417. Frank Frisch, of the Giants, retained his lead as the best base-stealer, despite the fact that he failed to add to his total of 47 of a week ago.

Ed Rousch, of Cincinnati, has made a great spurt in his hitting and has moved up to second place where he is trailing Hornsby with an average of .351, while McHenry, of St. Louis, and Cruise of Boston, have tied for third place with .349. Other leading batters for 1921 or more games: Fournier, St. Louis, .348; Jussel, New York, .343; Frisch, New York, .339; J. Smith, St. Louis, .333; Bigbee, Pittsburgh, .325; Johnston, Brooklyn, .324. Jay Kirke, of Louisville, appears to have a safe hold on the batting honors of the American Association, as the averages show him hitting .383. He also is out in front for total base honors with 408 bases, acquired on 273 hits, which include 42 doubles, 15 triples, and 21 home runs. The real race is on for second place honors between Reb Russell of Minneapolis, who is hitting .368, Art Butler, of Kansas City, with .365, and Bunny Brief, another Kansas City slugger, with .363. Jim Thorpe, of Toledo, is on the heels of the trio with .360.

No Homes For N. Y. Thousands

(By Associated Press)
New York, Oct. 1.—Conditions connected with New York's annual fall moving day were the most chaotic in the city's history. A check of the full number of families against the number of apartments available, showed 69,797 families for whom there are no homes at all. COMMUNICATION FROM JUDGE J. A. SULLIVAN

Local Regent of Normal Tells of Its Fine Work and Gives Other Views

(Regent Sullivan says Board of Regents of Normal School was not controlled by politics in selection, or non-selection, of any teacher or in lowering or raising salaries. Also says entire Board unanimously in favor of both Constitutional Amendments and also favor movement to lengthen college course and grant degrees of B. S. and A. B. Normal has largest and strongest faculty and brightest outlook in its history.)

TO THE PUBLIC: (Especially of Richmond and Madison County)—

As local Regent of the Eastern Kentucky State Normal School, I think it is entirely proper for me to make this public statement:

Work and Condition of the Normal
On August 19, 1921, the Normal School closed the most successful year in its history. The enrollment for the year in the entire Normal was 1623 in actual attendance; of these, 1425 were in the Normal School proper (of which 367 were male and 1058 female). The enrollment in the Model School was 1896 of which 84 were male and 1114 female. The law requires the Model School to be maintained; the purpose being for the pupils in the Normal who are being trained to become competent teachers, to be able to see and observe a school as a model to follow as they go forth as trained teachers from the Normal; and the practice school is for the purpose of maintaining a school where teachers may do practice teaching under the supervision of skilled critic teachers, who acquaint the Normal School pupils of their deficiencies.

When the Normal School was established in 1906, there was not a high school in a single county in all Kentucky to which county boys and girls could go and attend without paying tuition. Now there are 398 such high schools in Kentucky. In supporting a high school here in our Normal School, the Board of Regents had a double idea: (1) To be a Model high school, and for the benefit of high school pupils, and (2) to aid the people of Madison county outside of Richmond to provide high school education for their children, and as the City of Richmond already had a good high school, which its youth could attend, free tuition, and as the county had no such high school, we, of course, gave preference to the country youth. We could not take all of the pupils who applied for admission as our space for High School was and is quite limited. I also desire to emphasize the fact that we in no sense have desired, or now desire, to have a school for the exclusive or for the wealthy alone, or for the supposed blueblood; for as between the blueblood and the redblood, I prefer the redblooded youth, for it is upon them we depend more in time of war and of peace for offense and defense. Increasing numbers of our Kentucky youth come here from other counties who have no high schools to attend, and such people must have the preference over those who have high schools of their own which they may attend with free tuition.

Our Normal School desires to prepare competent teachers, not only for the graded common schools of Kentucky, but also for the county and city high schools. Hence the increasing importance of the Normal School being able to give high school education to all would-be progressive teachers who apply for it.

Since President Coates has had charge of our Normal School, we have opened a very thorough Extension Department. During the past year we have had 321 pupils who could not, because of lack of funds or other reasons, attend our Normal School in person and have taken extension courses and they have all made most satisfactory progress, and will attend our Normal School to finish their full courses hereafter.

The last General Assembly, under the leadership of Hon. George Colvin, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, passed some very wise and long-needed educational legislation. Kentucky school teachers were among the
